

Development of a web application for KeepLocal company

Case study

Customer profile

KeepLocal is a UK based company providing web applications for takeaway restaurants.

Business Need

The client approached us with a request to develop an application that can be easily customized for different takeaway restaurants.

Business objectives

- ✓ Deliver mobile friendly web applications
- ✓ Common back office system for all applications
- ✓ Increase loyalty of takeaway clients

Project overview

KeepLocal requested for the development of an application for takeaway restaurants in a very limited time frame.

Since the deadlines were tight, we proposed to customize one of existing platforms to the client's needs.

Qulix team successfully customized and developed application's back end and front end. All the requested functionality for making orders, choosing the delivery time and place, payment options was successfully implemented in the system.

Integration with an under-development payment system became the major challenge. To overcome the challenge Qulix developed the abstraction layer to facilitate the payment processes. The abstraction layer allowed making payments via PayPal and Sage system. The third party system was later added to the list of payment systems without any redevelopment.

Result

As a result of cooperation with Qulix, KeepLocal delivered the application within the defined time frame. Qulix team did their best to cover all client`s needs and provided opportunities for further business development. Due to the easily customized application`s functionality,

KeepLocal company managed to extend its business activity by offering services not only to restaurants but also to the local shops in the UK.
